Motivational letter

Hi, NAKED team,

I've been running with your community for the past year and have genuinely grown to love the brand. What makes NAKED special to me is that it's so much more than sneakers — it's the culture, the community and the way you bring people together. I've been hoping an opportunity like this would come along, so I was genuinely excited to see the position.

In my current role, I lead content and social media communication for shows like Love Island and The Bachelorette, where my focus is turning viewers into an active community that talks, shares and engages. During the latest Love Island season, our Instagram grew by 100,000 followers in just two months, while our TikTok ranked among the world's top five Love Island accounts, all through organic content. I'd love to bring that same understanding of social media and community-building to NAKED and also Active Club.

I'm also very hands-on. I create and edit short-form videos, develop concepts and briefs, manage creator and influencer collaborations, and coordinate the events behind the content. From influencer activations to live events with more than 5,000 attendees, I'm used to taking ideas from concept to execution and making sure the content lives beyond the event itself. I enjoy being on the ground, capturing the moments that make people feel part of something, while keeping an eye on trends and performance to understand what resonates.

With a Master's degree in Product Design and experience in graphic design, photography and video editing, I bring both a creative eye and a strategic marketing mindset. I also love how NAKED puts women at the centre of sneaker culture while creating a space where everyone feels welcome. It's a brand and community I'd be genuinely proud to contribute to.

I've attached my CV, a selection of my work and two short videos I've created especially for NAKED. I'd love the opportunity to meet and tell you more.

All the best,
Simona
